

Drew Estate Announces Kentucky Fire Cured - Flying Pig

Miami, FL – Drew Estate announced today the release of the Flying Pig vitola in their Kentucky Fire Cured blend. The Kentucky Fire Cured Flying Pig (KFCFP) will make its debut at a private event, featuring Drew Estate co-founder Jonathan Drew, with Oxmoor Smoke Shoppe in Louisville, Kentucky. The cigar will receive a nationwide release at the IPCPR Tradeshow in Las Vegas, NV in July of 2014.

When asked why he decided to debut the cigar in Kentucky, Drew stated, “The choice was an easy one. Kentucky is obviously a major inspiration for the Kentucky Fire Cured line, and that inspiration comes through in everything from the blend profile to the iconic imagery. The tobacco that gives the Kentucky Fire Cured line its distinctive smoky aroma and flavor is grown right here in Kentucky.”

The Kentucky Fire Cured Flying Pig will be released in boxes of 12, and the cigar will be the same size as the other Flying Pig releases, 3 15/16” x 60. The KFCFP captures all of the smoky character that the Kentucky Fire Cured line has become known for among cigar smokers nationwide.

As stated, the Kentucky Fire Cured Flying Pig will be officially released at IPCPR 2014, and should ship in September 2014. The cigar will be available to ALL Drew Estate accounts. For more information about Kentucky Fire Cured, visit Drew Estate’s website at <http://drewestate.com>.
